

UNLOAD: Guns in the Hands of Artists -
Ephemera

UNLOAD: Guns in the Hands of Artists

Summer 2018

#UNLOAD: Guns in the Hands of Artists South American Story Rewall Panel

Fairfield University Art Museum

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.fairfield.edu/unload-ephemera>

This item has been accepted for inclusion in DigitalCommons@Fairfield by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@Fairfield. It is brought to you by DigitalCommons@Fairfield with permission from the rights-holder(s) and is protected by copyright and/or related rights. You are free to use this item in any way that is permitted by the copyright and related rights legislation that applies to your use. For other uses, you need to obtain permission from the rights-holder(s) directly, unless additional rights are indicated by a Creative Commons license in the record and/or on the work itself. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@fairfield.edu.

A Southern American Story, 2014

by Andrei Codrescu

The best carpenter around here shot himself in the ass with the .38 in his belt while planing shelves for a bookshelf in the bank president's new house.

It took a while to get the blood off the aged oak boards but not as long as it took the carpenter's ass to heal.

He walked with a limp but he finished the fine case that filled with books on gun-collecting above which elk and tusks pose as if to point out the triumph of books teaching their real men to soar like bullets into bony beast-heads.

The bank president shot himself.

The carpenter went to jail for weed.

The bank foreclosed on his shop.

The .38 is in the Kansas State Trooper Museum of captured boneheads.